

The step wells of Ahmedabad

IOE18 031

16 seats

Ahmedabad Campus

COURSE FACULTY

Srinivas Sesa Kuruganti

India

srinivaskuruganti@gmail.com

Current Affiliation : Freelance photographer & Filmmaker/Social worker

Shumona Goel

India

Education : Studied film at Bard College and Anthropology at the School of Oriental and African Studies

OVERVIEW

KEYWORDS : Architecture, History, Research

In this interdisciplinary workshop, students discover the ancient step wells of Ahmedabad dating back to 1100 AD.

Students will learn about the technical skills that went into the construction of these ecologically sensitive structures, and explore their relevance as ritual sites.

OBJECTIVE

Reflect critically on history and its forms. Engage history in non-narrative methods.

Develop a language that communicates across disciplines.

Students will collaborate to create unique projects in groups.

METHODOLOGY

Presentations.

Screenings of experimental films and sound art.

Lectures, daily discussions.

Site visits

FINAL DELIVERABLES

Exhibit of the work